Big ideas. Bigger horizons.

Pilot conversation outline | 31 October 2026

Starting in Gippsland. Thinking globally.

Individual online mentoring

A developing funded pilot for 13–17-year-olds in Gippsland, led by Seizon valavaia. Young people can bring a passion, idea or question, or get support to discover a starting point. Their interests and goals shape the approach.

How it could work

Find a starting point; choose a direction together; explore, make and rethink; then reflect and choose a next step. A result could be a creative piece, a small investigation, a prototype or a clearer sense of what to pursue. Different young people can take different paths. The private project planner offers editable milestones, reflection and optional local download/reopen, without an account.

For families

Parents and carers can express interest. Before mentoring begins, the format, consent, communication boundaries, accessibility, independent concern route and planned ending will be agreed. Absence and withdrawal arrangements will be explained. Seizon holds a valid Working with Children Check. Enquiring does not enrol a young person or reserve a place.

For partners and funders

We welcome conversations with schools, community organisations, Wellington Shire and other Gippsland supporters about access, referrals, an eligible auspice and funding. A realistic budget must cover mentoring, preparation, coordination, accessibility, independent safeguarding support and evaluation. Funding eligibility is still to be established.

Learning from a first pilot

Young people help choose what progress means. Optional reflections could capture something discovered, a next step and whether support was useful. Record attendance and delivery cost proportionately. Public examples are illustrative, not participant results.

Current stage

Funding, dates, capacity and session arrangements are not confirmed. Bookings and enrolments are not open. No council funding, partnership or endorsement is claimed. The website offers a private Spark Explorer that works without an account; it does not provide live mentoring, bookings or participant accounts.
